

Antonio Lizana at the Los Angeles International Flamenco Festival 2022

Spanish flamenco jazz saxophonist Antonio Lizana and his band will offer a unique concert in the U.S. at Hollywood's Bourbon Room.

Antonio Lizana was born in 1986 and raised in San Fernando, a province of Cádiz, one of the cradles of flamenco singing, where from a young age he collaborated with countless artists in the area.

He has been one of the only Spanish artists to record an NPR's Tiny Desk concert and has collaborated with artists such as Arturo O'Farrill and Alejandro Sanz on works that received Grammy awards. He has also collaborated on recordings and in live performances with Snarky Puppy, Marcus Miller, Chano Domínguez, Alfredo Rodríguez, Ari Hoenig, Jorge Drexler, India Martínez, Jorge Pardo, Shai Maestro, Chambao, José Mercé, Josemi Carmona, Carmen Linares and Pepe Habichuela.
