His “beautifully rounded guitar tone” and “soulful rendition” (The New York Times) make him one of the most sought-after soloists by today’s foremost orchestras, conductors and festivals. A champion and supporter of new repertoire for the classical guitar, he has given numerous world premieres, including the first guitar piece written by five-time Academy Award-winning composer John Williams.

Highlights for the current season include engagements with the Pittsburgh Symphony, National Orchestra of Lyon, and Copenhagen Philharmonic, in addition to recitals at the Aspen Music Festival and the Kennedy Center in Washington, DC. Further, he has appeared at such prestigious venues as the Philharmonie in Berlin, Carnegie Hall in New York, Tchaikovsky Concert Hall in Moscow, and the Vienna Musikverein.

Villegas is the recipient of more than 30 international awards, including El Ojo Crítico from Spain’s National Radio and the Christopher Parkening, Francisco Tárrega, and Andrés Segovia awards. Known for his outreach programs, Villegas is the founder of The Music Without Borders Legacy, a program that seeks to bridge communities across cultural, social, and political borders for the benefit of children and youth.

Festival Casals runs from March 4 to March 11.
